

Crescent Park- Crescent Park is designed to give visitors many experiences and choices of activities. The two entrances are located such that visitors will be drawn to the site, the south entrance a brick plaza with water features and space for a farmer's market, and the eastern entrance with large mounded landforms create a memorable place.

The crescent shaped landforms provide screening as well as seating areas for spectators of recreation. The water pond inside one crescent is intended for winter ice-skating, while the grass areas for sports such as soccer and football.

Crescent Park is intended to provide Northern Fort Collins with an opportunity for passive and active enjoyment as well as a vital part of economic growth in the surrounding area.
